

THE ALASKA STANDARD

A New Benchmark for Responsible Growth & Investment

The Alaska Standard represents the State of Alaska's commitment to fostering a globally competitive business environment that prioritizes responsible resource development, economic prosperity, and long-term sustainability. Rooted in Article 8 of the Alaska Constitution, which mandates the maximum benefit of natural resources for the people, The Alaska Standard sets Alaska apart as a pragmatic, investor-friendly state that delivers economic returns and environmental stewardship.

WHY INVEST IN ALASKA?

A Legacy of Responsible Resource Development

Since statehood in 1959, Alaska has demonstrated that economic development and environmental protection can go hand in hand. From the historic Prudhoe Bay oil field to today's low-carbon energy innovations, the state has harnessed its resource wealth to create jobs, fund infrastructure, and improve quality of life, all while protecting its vast natural environment.

Investor-Friendly, Results-Oriented

Unlike other jurisdictions that impose politicized ESG frameworks, Alaska's approach is rooted in practical governance and constitutional obligation. The state focuses on outcomes: if it makes money and benefits Alaskans, it's a priority.

Dynamic, Diversified Economy

Alaska is more than oil and gas. It's a modern frontier for critical minerals, renewables, LNG exports, and technological innovation. With strategic proximity to Asia, abundant untapped resources, and state-led investment in energy innovation, Alaska is positioned to lead the global energy transition while securing a resilient domestic supply chain.

SPOTLIGHT:

Alaska Advantages

$180B+

in state revenue from resource development since statehood

$80B

sovereign wealth fund (Alaska Permanent Fund) benefiting all residents

30%

of power from wind, hydro, and solar—with growth in micro-nuclear, tidal, and geothermal

Investor Protection

Stringent but streamlined regulations and permitting processes

Low Carbon Footprint

Anti-flaring laws and reinjection practices keep emissions among the lowest in the U.S.

“We want the world to know that if you care about environmental and social justice, protecting the public interest, and enriching people over dictators and other bad actors, there is no better place than Alaska to help achieve these goals.”

– Governor Mike Dunleavy

Learn More About The Alaska Standard or read the Inaugural Sustainability Report
gov.alaska.gov/alaska-standard/

